

NEW YORK CITY INVESTMENT FUND

A Partnership for New York City Organization

OBJECTIVES

The New York City Investment Fund is a private fund with a civic mission.

The Fund’s objectives are to invest in ventures that:

- Benefit New York City and its communities in all five boroughs
- Generate jobs and promote entrepreneurial activity
- Engage New York City business leaders across all sectors of the city’s economy
- Benefit from the strategic assistance of the Fund’s network

OVERVIEW

A Network of Top Experts

The Fund is the vision of its Founding Chairman, Henry R. Kravis, founding partner of Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. He established the Fund in 1996 to mobilize the city’s financial and business leaders to help build a stronger and more diversified local economy. To that end, the Fund has built a network of top experts from the investment and corporate communities who help identify investment opportunities and support New York City’s most promising entrepreneurs in both the for-profit and not-for-profit sectors.

An “Evergreen” Fund

To date, the Fund has raised in excess of $110 million and made more than 90 investments. It was initially capitalized by contributions of $1 million each from 67 individual and corporate investors, who invested for the good of the city, without the expectation of financial returns. The Fund is an “evergreen” fund — realized gains are reinvested in other worthwhile projects. Maria Gotsch serves as President and CEO of the Fund.

The Fund is under the auspices of the non-profit Partnership for New York City, a business leadership organization. Kathryn Wylde serves as President and CEO of the Partnership for New York City.

ABOUT THE PARTNERSHIP FOR NEW YORK CITY

The Partnership for New York City (www.pfnyc.org) is the leading voice for New York City business. Its members include CEOs of the city’s top corporate, investment and entrepreneurial firms. Working with the public sector, the Partnership mobilizes the resources of business to address issues that are central to the city’s economy.

New York City Investment Fund

STRUCTURE

Fund investments are funded by three different capital sources:

- New York City Investment Fund, L.L.C., a limited liability company comprised of over 30 investors. Returns are reinvested in other worthwhile projects.
- New York Small Business Venture Funds I, II and III, certified capital companies that were organized to participate in a New York State program that provides tax credits to insurance companies that invest in small businesses, via certified capital companies (CAPCOs). These funds are targeted primarily at technology firms, businesses located outside of Manhattan and businesses located in Empire Zones (which include Lower Manhattan, and designated areas of Harlem, Washington Heights, Inwood and the South Bronx). Businesses that qualify for CAPCO funds must be headquartered in New York State (80% of employees located in New York State) and have fewer than 100 employees.
- New York City Partnership Foundation, Inc., a 501(c)(3) public charity that makes investments reflective of the Fund's mission with respect to social and community investments. Investments are restricted to eligible charitable activities, including educational, health care and economic development projects in blighted areas, or those sponsored by not-for-profit organizations. The Foundation also supports policy and research initiatives of the Partnership, as well as the David Rockefeller Fellows Program.

INVESTMENT CRITERIA

The key criterion for investment is that a venture is a viable business and will generate tangible benefits for New York City and its communities. The Fund is flexible in terms of how it structures its investments, which typically range in size from $1 million to $5 million in the form of debt, equity or a combination thereof. The Fund does not make grants; instead, it may provide below-market financing for projects that advance its mission, particularly those that contribute to the economic renewal of blighted areas and alleviation of poverty.

The Fund will invest in most industry sectors and at any stage of business development. It has a typical investment horizon of three to five years. Investments in early-stage technology companies will only be made alongside an experienced lead venture capital investor. When investing in a venture capital deal, returns are expected to equal those of other investors.

SECTOR GROUPS

The Fund engages senior business executives in the Fund's mission through industry focused sector groups. More than 200 top industry experts, drawn from the Fund's extensive investor network, volunteer their time and institutional resources to develop the Fund's investment strategies, conduct due diligence and monitor portfolio projects. Sector groups include: Cleantech; Health Care; Information Technology; Media & Communications; and Retail & Real Estate.

NEW YORK BIOSCIENCE INITIATIVE

One of the goals of the Investment Fund is to focus on projects that may not translate immediately into jobs or other private sector activity, but may result in longer-term benefits to the city's economy. The Investment Fund has partnered with a consortium of the city's top research institutions, business leaders and senior government officials to develop a major bioscience industry cluster in the metropolitan region (www.nycbiotech.com). Construction is underway at the city's first major commercial science park, East River Science Park (ERSP), which is located on 29th Street and First Avenue in Manhattan. ERSP will provide approximately 1 million square feet of lab and office space, with initial occupancy beginning in late 2009/early 2010.

As part of a $25 million commitment to build a commercial bioscience industry, the Fund has launched a Lab Space Loan Fund that will provide up to $15 million of low cost loans to companies that move into ERSP. The Lab Space Loan Fund is targeted at early and mid-stage bioscience companies that need assistance with the cost of building out their lab space.

SPECIAL PURPOSE PROGRAMS

In response to other targeted needs that have arisen in the city, the Fund has created special purpose programs to address those needs. For example:

- Arts Entrepreneurial Loan Fund — in partnership with the New York State Council on the Arts, a State agency, $2 million in low interest loans were provided in 2007 to eight nonprofit arts/ cultural groups in support of entrepreneurial and infrastructure projects.
- Financial Recovery Fund — $11 million was raised to provide 88 recoverable grants to small businesses in Lower Manhattan that suffered damage following the events of September 11, 2001.
